WILSON AND MARSHALL

President's Wishes Will Be Observed
With Regard to Vice Presidential Nominee.—Glynn Delivers Keynote.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Coliseum, St. Louis, June 14.—With a keynote of "Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity," the democratic national convention began its first session shortly after noon today with not a single element in sight to disturb the harmonious re-nomination of President Wilson and Vice President Marshall.

When Chairman McCombs called the convention to order, 12,000 delegates, alternates and spectators packed the big Coliseum to the roof. Members of the national committee, members of President Wilson's cabinet and party leaders all over the country had places on the platform. Plaster medallions of Washington, Jackson, Jefferson and Cleveland looked down on the delegates from the decorations, which consisted uniformly of nothing but the American flag. The only picture of President Wilson in the hall hung in front of the speaker's desk, inscribed "America First."

Will Renominate Marshall.

Vice presidential booms whittled by President Wilson's direct words that he desired the renomination of Vice President Marshall were brought to the convention hall, but only as favored sons' compliments.

When National Chairman McCombs called the convention to order, the next business was the reading of the call by Secretary J. Bruce Kramer.

Former Governor Glynn of New York was next with the keynote speech. Down under the speaker's stand direct telephone and telegraph wires to the White House carried momentary reports of the proceedings in the hall. At prospects of a fight in the convention had gone glimmering over night with Wm. J. Bryan's announcement that he did not propose to press certain planks before the resolute committee, he would make campaign speeches for the democratic nominee.

"We have entered this hall as democrats and as deliberators as Americans," declared Mr. Glynn in sounding the keynote.

Praises Wilson's Policies.

"It is the business of this convention to endorse the policy of the United States," speaking for order, said the speaker, "to send forth a message to all the world that will leave no room for doubt."

Reviewing President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs, he declared the president had stood with Washington, Adams and Grant, who had preserved peace and honor for selfish purposes," he declared, "others may cry for a policy of blood and iron, but the president has acted on the belief the leader of a nation who plunges his people into unnecessary wars like Pontius Pilate, vainly washes his hands of innocent blood while the earth quakes and heavens are darkened and thousands of millions are perishing."

"If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, then the president is right today," he declared.

Party Harmony Complete.

"Wilson and Marshall and Victory in November," was the program of the delegates who crowded into the big Coliseum here today for the opening session of the democratic national convention. There probably was not one democrat who went into the building who could recall a national convention of that party entered upon with more harmony than that which prevailed among the more than one thousand delegates today. The candidates for president and vice president had decided upon before the delegates arrived, there will be no friction over the party's declaration of principles.

Those who looked for clear weather for the convention were a bit disappointed to learn that the party will not become active in the present convention. The Nebraska since his arrival here early yesterday has been busy receiving callers.

Colombo of Detroit led one stanza of "America," and followed with "The Star Spangled Banner," in which everyone joined.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Lee, Methodist, of St. Louis.

Work on Platform.

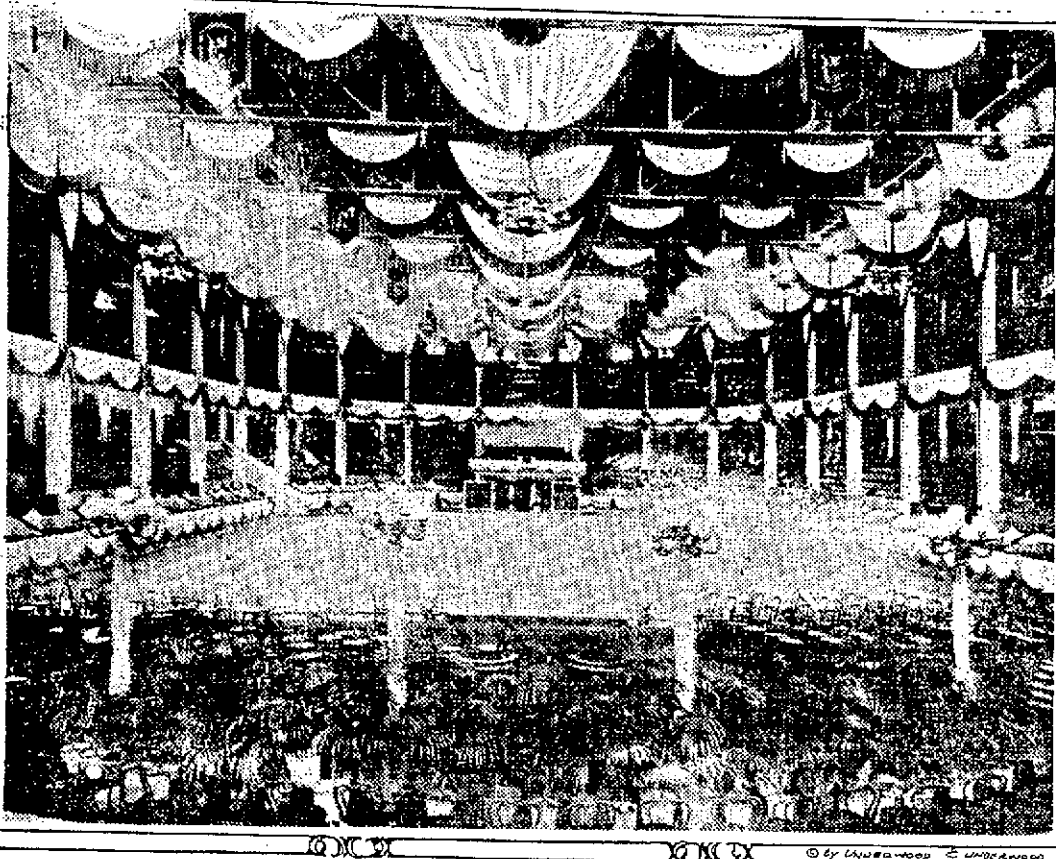

Platform-building was continued by potential leaders of the party today, so as to have much of the work in readiness for consideration of the resolutions committee. The committee was expected to organize late today to receive drafts of planks and hand them over to the subcommittee for consideration. It is probable a public hearing will be given on Thursday to suffragists, labor leaders and others who have planks they desire inserted. Antisuffragists will also be given a hearing.

Secretary of War Baker arrived here last night from Washington with the latest drafted personally by President Wilson. On his way west, he put his papers under the pillows in his berth while he slept.

Suffragists Happy.

Under a sweltering sun and intense humidity, 8,000 suffragists today carried out their Golden Lane demonstration in the twelve blocks of Locust street leading to the convention hall. They were enthusiastically received by thousands of delegates and convention visitors who passed between their white and yellow garbed lines arranged on two sides of the streets and not a single untoward incident marred the occasion.

Advised as a "walkless, talkless" display, it failed to carry out that promise. The women were so happy over their reception and prospects of attaining a favorable plank in the democratic platform, they moved about a great deal and chatted with many of the convention visitors.

Wilson Opposes Plank.

Washington, June 14.—Efforts to insert a plank in the democratic platform, favoring a law to prohibit federal judges from leaving the bench to accept elective offices, will not be countenanced by President Wilson. Administration officials let it be known that the president had sent word to St. Louis that he did not want any petty politics played.

Delay Note to Carranza.

Washington, June 14.—The United States answer to the last note from General Carranza probably will not be made until after the St. Louis convention this week, it was said in administration circles today.

The delay was considered advisable to eliminate chance that any action toward Mexico at this time might be interpreted as prompted by political influences.

CORONER TESTIFIES
LAMBERT GIRL TOOK POISON AS LIQUID

Point Regarded as Important One For State in Trial of Will Orpet For Murder.

Waukegan, June 14.—Dr. John L. Taylor, coroner, testified today at the trial of Wm. H. Orpet, for alleged murder of Marian Lambert, that the cyanide of potassium which caused death, was taken in liquid form. He said stains of the poison on Miss Lambert's person was sediment and not cyanide in crystal form.

This point was regarded as important by the state in connection with the charge that young Orpet, a student at the University of Wisconsin, bought a two-ounce bottle from Charles Hager, a friend in the drug business at Madison, Wisconsin.

The defense, it is said, will contend that Miss Lambert brought the poison in crystal form with her probably wrapped in a bit of paper.

Dr. Taylor said that stains of sediment and impalpable powder, were on Miss Lambert's hand and extended in a streak from a corner of her mouth toward her forehead as if left there by trickle of liquid.

Cross examination by Attorney Ralph Potter was designed to show the doctor's deductions might be erroneous.

There was no confirmation of the report that Josephine Davis would be charged with the theft of the cyanide of potassium, which was the result of discrepancies between testimony before grand jury and in court. She swore yesterday Miss Lambert was frequently depressed and threatened suicide as result of love affair with Orpet.

Dr. Taylor admitted cyanide crystals may be powdered to impalpability. "These you could not tell the difference between such powder and sediment of a liquid, could you?" asked Mr. Potter.

"I could form an opinion. The sediment, for instance, I think would be more evenly distributed," replied the witness.

James F. King, city clerk of Lake Forest, testified to turning over certain organs of the body to chemists for examination and was asked to cause to be sent, has not yet been planned. It was mailed at Madison on the day Orpet was in the woods with Marian, the day she died. It spoke in casual terms of examination and other school routine.

Wm. Marshall, a golf professional, an acquaintance of Lambert's, followed him on the stand. Mr. Marshall was called on to testify by Mr. Orpet, that on the morning of February 10, and went with him to Lake Forest postoffice where a letter from Orpet to Miss Lambert was obtained.

This was one of the so-called "alibi" letters and Orpet's purpose in causing it to be sent, has not yet been planned. It was mailed at Madison on the day Orpet was in the woods with Marian, the day she died. It spoke in casual terms of examination and other school routine.

ROOSEVELT FAMILY
AT NEW YORK TODAY

Teddy and His Wife at Dock to Meet Their Son Returning from South America.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 14.—Kermit and Mrs. Roosevelt, son and daughter-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, arrived here today with their baby from Buenos Aires today on the United States army transport Kilpatrick. They were met at the pier by Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Persons at the dock observed the former president walked with his left hand at times pressed under his heart. Questioned by his wife he told her he had a pain, but believed it would pass away presently. This proved to be the case by the time the vessel berthed.

Kermit Roosevelt has been in South America as representative of a New York bank. His wife, daughter of Joseph E. Willard, ambassador to Spain, suffered an attack of typhoid while in the tropics.

Roosevelt was suffering with a very bad cold contracted several months ago. After leaving the pier he kept his apartment with throat specialist. He had been visiting the specialist upon occasions of his coming here from Oyster Bay.

PRESIDENT LEADS A MONSTER PARADE
FOR PREPAREDNESS

Wilson Heads Big Procession Which Marches Down Pennsylvania Avenue to White House Reviewing Stand.

Washington, June 14.—Led by President Wilson, carrying the stars and stripes, nearly 75,000 men, women and children of Washington marched up broad Pennsylvania avenue today in a preparedness parade, arranged to emphasize the national capital's demand for an adequate army and navy. The president, marching himself, and reviewing the parade, the president prepared an address on "America First," to be delivered in the afternoon at an open air meeting, north of the White House.

Brilliant Decorations.

Washington was brilliantly decorated for the occasion. It was a holiday, for under an executive order issued by the president all government employees were excused from work and many stores were closed.

Former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft also had been invited, but found it impossible to participate.

Beginning at Peace Monument, near the capital building, the line of march passed the postoffice and treasury department buildings and then reached the White House, where a reviewing stand, draped with American flags, had been erected. There the president left the head of the parade and entered the stand to watch the remainder of the line pass by.

As the line swung around the treasury building at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, the president was confronted by a huge banner bearing the legend "Be prepared—if you care about 91 electoral votes, consider us—women's party."

Half a dozen young women with megaphones saw to it that the banner did not go unnoticed. It was the work of the congressional union for women's suffrage.

No Soldiers in Line.

No regular military organizations were permitted to march, because Secretary Baker said Daniels thought it would be improper for professional soldiers or sailors to participate.

The president, attired in white trousers, blue coat and straw hat, and shouldering his flag like a man, stepped briskly to the national flag played by the United States Marine Band. He smiled broadly and frequently raised his hat in response to cheers and marched on to the reviewing stand.

Two district citizens, escorted by Secretary Tumulty, the White House employees and the White House newspaper corps.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT
NOT SERIOUSLY ILL

Strains Ligament in Coughing Fit, He Believes, But Condition is Not Serious.

New York, June 14.—Reports today that Colonel Roosevelt was seriously ill apparently proved to be untrue. He has been experiencing coughing spells recently and in a statement late today regarding an attack, but a large number of his friends, both amateur and professional, from Illinois and Wisconsin cities will be here to break the day targets and strive for the liberal prize money hung up for the winners by the Junior club.

The public is urged to attend the tournament, at which no charges are to be made. The tournament committee today completed arrangements for the staging of the shoot, and in case of good weather the most successful tournament in the history of the club is anticipated.

Amateur shots only, but a large number of professional crack shots will be here to make their fling at the day birds. The second automatic trip was installed and tested out this afternoon.

Up to the time of the recent great battle in the North sea, says the Overseas News Agency, "the British lost eleven battleships, fifteen armored cruisers, and eleven other cruisers. To this must be added thirty torpedo boats, twenty gunboats, twenty submarines and other vessels, with an aggregate tonnage of 460,000. These losses were increased as a result of the Skagerrak battle to more than 130 units, with a total tonnage exceeding 600,000."

Managers' Counter Proposals Prove Unsatisfactory to Union Men.

New York, June 14.—Forced by W. T. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen into admitting that the demand of the 14,000 railroad men of the United States had been recognized, the railroad managers at the conference called here to avert a general strike, today decided it was up to the men to decide whether they should continue the conference. The union leaders, after stating the railroad's counter proposition was not acceptable, decided to continue the conference, but indicated they expected it to end late today or tomorrow.

EXHAUSTION FORCES
LULL IN ACTIVITY
ON VERDUN FRONT

German Make Twelve Separate Attempts on Monday to Storm Positions Near Thiaumont Farm.

Paris, June 14.—The fighting around Verdun has once more died down from sheer exhaustion of the combatants.

An entire division, half of whom were Bavarians and half Pomeranians, was used by the Germans in twelve separate attempts, Monday to storm the French position north of Thiaumont.

From this position the French flank is prevented the enemy from advancing on the Vaux plateau. No results having been attained by nightfall, fresh troops were brought up and attempt made to turn the position from southwest. After a desperate struggle, a footing was obtained in some of the trenches of Hill 321, half a mile west of Thiaumont and a mile west of Bray.

No effort was made to increase this advantage yesterday, owing probably to losses on Monday which according to prisoners, were exceptionally heavy.

A man belonging to the sixteenth Bavarian infantry stated that his regiment had been held in reserve for a big offensive against the last four days of Verdun, but it has been thrown in to support troops attacking Thiaumont and has lost nearly a third of its effectives.

TRUE AMERICANISM
DEMANDS NEUTRALITY

President of National German-American Alliance Sounds Patriotic Note in Flag Day Speech.

Philadelphia, June 14.—Speaking at Flag Day ceremonies at the Betsy Ross house here today, Dr. C. J. Hexamer, president of National German-American Alliance, declared that true Americanism knows no distinction of race or creed, and does not take sides with any foreign nation.

"True Americanism," he said, "demands a true neutrality solely for the defense of American rights and in the best interests of the United States against any aggression from whichever side it may come. It follows faithfully and loyally where our flag leads."

Dr. Hexamer said Americans had experienced much and "some of us had endured much since the outbreak of the European war," he said, "as experience is the best teacher, we have all learned many important lessons."

BURLESQUE FACULTY MEETING IS CLEVER SKETCH BY SENIORS

Students of Graduating Class Take Parts of Instructors in Class Night Stunt—Present Gift to School.

Members of the high school senior class appeared in the roles of their instructors in the class night exercises last evening at the high school building, presenting a clever burlesque, "A Senior's Conception of a Faculty Meeting." In this unique sketch the teachers were given the opportunity of seeing their peculiarities and idiosyncrasies of dress and manner displayed in exaggerated style, much to the amusement of the audience, especially the high school students. It was a clever and original piece of work, with much care and thought given to the various characters. Following was the cast:

Mr. Keck, Walter Bidwell; Mr. Werrell, Harold Joerg; Mr. Barber, Herbert Kerkus; Mr. West, Ross Lowry; Mr. Arbutnot, Edward Wobig; D. D. Manross, Harvey Fisher; Mr. Gruenel, Lawrence Wright; Mike McNeil, Maurice Weirick; Mrs. Hull, Margaret Morton; Miss Zelniger, Marion Drummond; Miss Mout, Marion Ewing; Miss Whitely, Marie Crow; Miss Thompson, Bernice Billings; Miss Simmons, Virginia Johnston; Miss Paine, Irma Austin; Miss Sprague, Myrtle Lane; Miss O'Hara, Jessica George; Miss Donnelly, Constance Allison; and the presentation of the mace to the junior class by Maurice Weirick. The junior class was represented by Willard Skelly. The latter ceremony marks the beginning of a new school year which will be followed out in succeeding years.

The class gift to the school, a fine chair and desk for the classroom in the assembly room, was presented with appropriate remarks by Nevada McCarthy.

Following out the custom of years past, the daughters of the American Revolution presented the winners of the history contest with the prizes. Miss Emily Wilbur of the Garfield first prize, Miss Doris Somerville of the Lincoln school received the second prize of a book, and Miss Mildred Wade of the Lincoln school received the third prize. The local D. A. R. chapter presents these prizes each year with the idea of inspiring the pupils to become interested in United States history. Fifteen students of the eight grades of the city took part in the contest this year.

Musical selections for the evening were most delightful, including a chorus number by the entire senior class, led by Miss Emily Sewell, supervisor of music. The Girls' Glee club of the high school also made an appearance, singing the chorus of "Carmina" with Manila Powers in the solo part.

The commencement exercises will be held on Thursday evening at eight o'clock at the Methodist church.

LOCAL FIRM LOWEST BIDDER FOR PAVING

Bid of Brown and Connors Will Probably Receive Contract for Asphalt-Macadam Pavement.

Four bids were opened by the city council Tuesday afternoon, from firms seeking the contract for the asphalt-macadam paving on Oakland avenue and Foster street boulevard. Considerable interest was shown in the bidding, and the material this year, the bids received are very favorable.

The contract will undoubtedly go to Brown and Connors of this city, who were low bidders by a close margin. It now becomes the duty of the board of public works to decide which brand of asphalt they desire to be used on the two streets, as prices were submitted on half a dozen different brands which are standard brands and have passed the rigid inspection of the city, prepared by City Engineer C. V. Kerch. P. W. Ryan & Sons of Janesville, the Gund-Graham company of Freeport, and Joan O'Gara of Chicago were the other bidders.

The Brown and Connors bids were slightly higher than those made by the Gund-Graham company last year, when they secured the contract after a wrangle over the kind of asphalt to be used. Their bid on Bermuda asphalt, a natural lake product, admitted to be one of the best brands on the market, was $1.05, as compared to 96 cents for Scarco, used here until a year ago, and 99 cents for Aztec, the type contracted for last year. The contract bid using Bermuda was $16,175.30, compared to $18,473.32 using Aztec; $16,136.98, Scarco-A, and $15,414.08 with Scarco-B, a Mexican asphalt.

The board of public works will now determine if the difference in price between the Bermuda bid and the others, is worth the increase in the quality of the asphalt.

ORGANIZE TO HANDLE LOCAL FRUIT CROP

Fruit Growers Establish Headquarters for Clearance of All Fruit Delivered at Janesville Market.

To give fair treatment to the producer and to insure stability of prices, fruit growers in the vicinity of Janesville have organized and will maintain headquarters during the fruit season at the Winslow grocery store on South River street. J. E. Stallard, an expert fruit grower, will be in charge.

Berry growers will bring their fruit to the headquarters, where it will be classified in No. 1 and No. 2 grades and will be directed to the stores which will leave daily orders. In case of surplus supply, arrangements will be made for an outside market.

The proposed plan promises to secure business-like method of dealing between the fruit growers and the merchants, which will be appreciated by both parties. "We have no intention of holding up the prices, but are merely looking for fair treatment and a just compensation for our labor as fruit growers this morning. He explained that one of the important features which the organization would secure would be a grading of the fruit, which would insure the sale of first class fruit at No. 1 prices and second class fruit at No. 2 prices. It will eliminate the necessity of taking No. 2 prices for No. 1 fruit.

There are eight or ten Janesville fruit growers and six or seven men enrolled in the new association which is incorporated with the following officers: S. J. Kellogg, president; J. L. Robinson, vice president; W. O. Wilcox, secretary, and J. F. Newman, secretary.

Prospects for a heavy berry crop have been made by a severe dose of blight due to an excess of rain weather. Fruit raisers, however, hope to be able to furnish a crop of good quality for the local market, as berries which are now maturing will probably be of larger size and better flavor as a result of the thinning which was brought about by the blight. Once the weather furnishes plenty of sunshine and a scarcity of moisture, the strawberry crop promises to bring fair returns.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 71.

Through fascinating experiment with chickens, conducted under the intelligent direction of America's school teachers, the boys and girls of today, the fathers and mothers of tomorrow, can be made to understand the simple and long-neglected laws of nutrition upon which so much of our people now so much are dependent for the subject of preparedness, depends.

When school teachers manifest an interest in the definition of the word food and learn that all that people eat cannot be called food for the reason that foodless food is among the commonest articles of present-day diet, the school children will begin to learn something about themselves not now taught through any text books.

They will learn that a man may be compared to a steam boiler, constructed of many plates of various thickness and strength.

They will learn that under low pressure such a boiler may endure for a long time, but they will also learn that plates are slowly corroded by acids.

They will learn that the aluminum plates resist the action of certain acids, but surrender to the action of certain alkalis; that the copper plates resist rust, but the iron plates are constantly corroding and becoming thinner.

They will learn that when the pressure in the boiler is raised a little some day the boiler will give way—at its weakest spot.

They will know that the man is the victim of diseases known by many different names according to the location of the weakest spot.

They will learn that all disease springs from pollution of the blood stream, either through its impoverishment or through the introduction of foreign matter that ought not to be present, and that in all abnormal conditions of the blood serious symptoms of disorder manifest themselves in the weak spot of the individual.

They will learn that in one case the disease, according to its cause, is locomotor ataxia; in another, according to another cause, hardening of the arteries; in another, inflamed eyelids; in another, Bright's disease; in another, diabetes; in another, cancer; in another, rheumatism; in another, neuritis; in another, appendicitis; in another, organic heart disease; in another, tuberculosis.

They will learn that the man who raises pigeons for the market insists on whole wheat and whole corn for their food. His object is to prevent the formation of the weak spot.

They will learn that whatever is put into the body will produce results according to the quality and quantity of the substance ingested.

They will learn that hydrocyanic acid administered to a Mongolian in China and hydrocyanic acid administered to a New Yorker in the Rockefeller Institute, 10,000 miles distant, will produce similar results.

They will learn that morphine and cocaine act in Austria just as they act in Brazil.

They will learn that the proper quantity of certain mineral elements taken in the form of the food salts and colloids organized by Nature will produce the same result in Bombay as in London.

They will learn that the school child of today are destined to be the mothers of the race ten or twenty years hence and they will understand why the school room is the place in which foods in their relationship to health and disease.

In company with their teachers they will frequently visit the basement or the roof of the schoolhouse because in every school either in the basement or on the roof there will be a continuous practical demonstration of the effects of food upon life either for good or evil.

In the basement or on the roof there will be ten cages divided into two groups of five each. There will be four chickens in each cage of the first group. The cages of the second group will be empty. The school children will feed the chickens.

The chickens in cage No. 1 will be fed whole corn, whole oats, natural rice, whole wheat, unpeeled barley, grass or greens of any kind, and water. The children will note that on this diet the chickens in cage No. 1 will be proud and spirited. Their feathers will be brilliant, their flesh firm, and their bodies well developed.

The same children will feed the chickens in cage No. 2 with simple mixtures of whole grains and denatured grains, the remainder of the diet being the same as that of cage No. 1. They will note that at the end of a period of six months there will be a marked superiority in the appearance of the chickens in cage No. 1.

The same children will feed the chickens in cage No. 3 with peeled barley, polished rice, processed oats, degerminated cornmeal, and dough balls made of white flour and water with the same quantity of greens fed to the chickens in cages No. 1 and No. 2.

In a few months the marked physical degeneracy of the health of these chickens will teach the children its own lesson.

The same children will feed the chickens in cage No. 4 with beet pulp, from which some of the mineral salts have been extracted by leaching in distilled water. In addition to this they will feed the chickens with soda crackers, white biscuits, gingerbread, gingersnaps, white bread, pie crust, and candy, plus water, with the usual quantity of gravel and screenings.

The conditions of the chickens in a few months will be eloquently suggestive to the children.

The same children will feed the chickens in cage No. 5 with white bread, white biscuits, white crackers and cakes, cream of wheat, farina, macaroni, corn flakes, caramels, ethereal soda water, and other fancy drinks, with gravel but without greens.

As the feathers of these chickens begin to droop and the chickens begin to huddle in the corners of their cages, seeking for the darkness, miserable even unto death, the lesson of the relationship of food to animal life will be taught.

At this stage of the experiment the healthy chickens in cage No. 1 will be transferred to cage No. 4 and there they will be fed on the diet of cage No. 5 until they, too, begin to show the same symptoms of dissolution and disease.

The chickens of cages No. 2, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5 will then be transferred to cages No. 7, No. 8, No. 9 and No. 10, where they will be fed on the natural, unadulterated, unimproved, undenatured diet of cage No. 1.

The school children will see the sick chickens recover rapidly, and they will go through life with a lesson thoroughly learned. When they assume the responsibility of home life for themselves they will know that to abandon the laws of nature in the pursuit of some capricious food ornament will be at the expense of the health, happiness and welfare of those dependent upon them.

CANADIAN LUMBERJACKS FELLING ENGLISH TIMBER

(By Associated Press.)
London, June 14.—Expert Canadian lumbermen are scattered through many forests of England cutting down trees for the purpose of "making a battering-ram wherewith to win the war." These brown little backwoods-men—half soldier and half trapper—were brought to England from the Dominion because of their knowledge of the forests, to turn into a war asset the vast and valuable stretches of British timberland. Apart from the timber proper, which is so much in demand for military purposes, the by-products are valuable, for they include tanning bark, turpentine and potash.

The first work of the Canadians was the marking down and surveying of certain tracts of forest land, "blazing" the trees—mainly the soft wood trees of pine and fir—and so arranging their scheme of attack that the beauties of the rural scenes would not unnecessarily be marred. With the arrival of the plants and milling machinery the lumbermen began turning out wood in all sorts of forms, from railway ties to matches. There are still left in England two and a half million acres of forest, the Crown woods alone covering about 125,000 acres.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by Alfred W. McCann.
Q.—Will you please advise me as to the value of celery for the stomach and nerves? Can the beneficial parts of celery be extracted by boiling as one would a soup, and are the same results obtained by so doing?

E. P. K.
A.—Celery contains 93 per cent of water, 1.5 per cent of protein, 3.3 per cent carbohydrates, sugars and starches; 1 per cent fat; 1 per cent soluble fibre; 1 per cent mineral matter, and 1 per cent vegetable extractive.

The mineral matter is made up of small amounts of magnesium, sulfur and phosphorus, and relatively large quantities of potassium, sodium, lime, iron and chlorine.

Celery is a valuable food because it contains many essential minerals, is rich in vegetable extractives, and contains vegetable fibre.

The vegetable extractives mildly stimulate the digestive glands, thereby serving as a laxative, and probably have a tonic effect upon the nervous system. Celery has always been called a "nervine food," and dietitians have never disputed it, very likely because they never have been able to establish the contrary.

Variable fibre, which is entirely cellulose, man finds himself unable to assimilate. Horses and cattle secrete a digestive fluid which converts cellulose into sugar, but the human system is said to be unable to accomplish this. However, it is a well known fact that indigestibility in the human intestine, cellulose is a laxative. Possessing the quality of absorbing large amounts of water from the digestive tract, it is enabled by its increase in volume to press against the walls of the intestines, stimulating intestinal movement, and thereby promoting the elimination of waste material.

When celery is boiled most of the minerals and extractives make their way into the water, and consequently can be supplied to the body by consuming this water. But the insoluble cellulose is obtained only by eating the vegetable proper.

Q.—What foods, if any, yield iodine to keep up the health of the thyroid glands; also what yields phosphorus?

H. D. H.
A.—Iodine is found in such fish foods as salmon, herring, cod, and oysters.

The foods richest in phosphorus are peas, beans, lentils, spinach, potatoes, mushrooms, oatmeal, whole wheat bread, whole rye bread, wheat bran, rye bran, unpeeled barley, natural brown rice, sweet corn, egg yolks, cheese, lean beef, ox tongue, chicken, rabbit, flesh, frog's flesh, codfish, herring, pike, salmon, caviar, peanuts, walnuts, almonds, figs, raisins, prunes, raspberries, gooseberries, caraway seeds, cocoa and chocolate.

Q.—Are figs and dates sugary fattening foods? Are they base forming, and have they a laxative effect?

A.—About three-fourths of each of these fruits consists of sugars and starch. The sugar is present in small quantities, but starch can be converted into sugar by means of the digestive fluids.

Figs and dates, in the amounts usually consumed, do not yield enough sugar to be in any way dangerous to persons who tend toward obesity.

Figs are notably base-forming, and have a decided laxative effect. Dates are slightly base-forming, and have a slight laxative effect.

They are foods fit for the gods. Eat them.

PHYSICIANS CLAIM THAT INFLUENZA LAST WINTER WAS SPREAD BY HORSES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Detroit, Mich., June 14.—The epidemic of grip which swept over the country last winter was probably transmitted from horses to men. This statement was made by Dr. Joseph A. Cappus of Chicago before the section on Practice of Medicine of the American Medical Association in session here. This epidemic which spared neither the city nor the rural population was quite different from ordinary winter colds and according to all accounts was identical with the great grip epidemic of 1890. While the influenza bacillus was present in many cases, other germs were also found. The occurrence of an extensive epidemic among horses, thought to be caused by the same germs, makes it probable that these epidemics of grip originate with horses and are communicated by them to human beings. Further investigation along these lines promises to reveal the secret of this disease and to show the means of its control and prevention.

The Section on Diseases of Children, Dr. John Lovett Morse of Boston discussed the effect of cold air in the treatment of pneumonia in children. He said that it has been the custom during recent years to treat children with pneumonia out of doors or in rooms with the windows open, this treatment being supposed to be of value in raising the blood pressure. Several hundred observations in cases of pneumonia in children at the Boston Children's Hospital show that the blood pressure is not affected by the outdoor treatment, but that children with pneumonia are more comfortable, cough less and are less depressed by the disease when treated outdoors than when treated in the house.

NAVY GUNS ARE USED SUCCESSFULLY ON SHORE

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, June 14.—The use of naval guns ashore in the present war, it is pointed out by a naval expert, is not a mere expedient, resulting from accidental or incidental circumstances, but as a well defined reason in the great initial speed of the projectile of a naval gun and the consequently longer range than that of field artillery. The new services they render are due to the aeroplane, which gives the gunner on land longer ranges of fire than he used to get.

The 15-inch naval guns with which the Germans occasionally bombard Dunkirk and Nancy are believed to be from ships lying idle in the Kiel canal. They are utilized because they carry farther than the big mortars. The type of the naval gun would have been more commonly used on land for field work had it not been so much heavier and more difficult to manipulate than the shorter range field and siege guns. Seventeen to eight-inch naval pieces may be mounted on naval trucks, but the recoil of the larger calibres is so violent as to require a solid concrete foundation.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) When a fellow takes you home from work is it necessary to ask him in? (2) Would he be likely to get angry if you didn't? (3) When a fellow comes to see you, what can you do to entertain him? (4) When he is leaving, does the girl ask him to come again or does he ask? (5) If the girl asks, does she say it every time as he is leaving, or just the first time? (6) When a girl is introduced to a boy, does she have to repeat his name or would it be all right to just say, "Pleased to meet you," or something like that? (7) What is the birthstone for June? (8) What will strengthen her ankles so that I could learn to skate this coming winter?

IGNORANT.
(1) No. If you like him it might be well to ask him to come to see you.
(2) He oughtn't to.
(3) Talk, make candy, read, play cards or almost any game.
(4) It is all right for the girl to ask him to come again and it is also all right for him to ask for the privilege. Many times his coming again is taken for granted and not mentioned.
(5) The first two or three times is enough.
(6) It is all right to say, "I am pleased to meet you." I think it rather clumsy.
(7) The pearl.
(8) Exercise your ankle by pointing your toe and moving your foot around and around in a circle.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Last winter I was sick almost all the time with colds and I got very thin. What can I do to gain flesh?

(2) Do you think it is a good plan to have all the windows open in your room at night when there is a high wind? I do not, because every time I put my windows up I catch more cold.
WORRIED.
(1) To gain flesh, take plenty of olive oil, eat eggs, butter, cereals and fatty broths, potatoes, peas, beans, corn, carrots and parsnips, figs, dates, nuts, bananas, underdone beefsteak and roast beef.
Drink plenty of milk, cream and cocoa.
Avoid food that will not digest easily, and be careful to masticate thoroughly what you do eat.
Give up pickles, vinegar and all acids.
Exercise freely in the open air, and take plenty of sleep.
Don't fret or worry; this will keep you in more than anything else. Cultivate an easy-going disposition, if you possibly can.
(2) As long as you keep sleep without your windows open you will have colds and remain thin. Fresh air is absolutely necessary for good health.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-eight years old and have been going with a young woman two years younger than myself for four years. I have every reason to think that this girl loves me and will marry me if I ask her. She is not bold and has never said me: I can just tell by the way she looks at me. I like her better than any girl I know, but I do not love her. When I was twenty years old I was desperately in love with a girl who dropped me for another man. She is married now, but I cannot forget her. Would you advise me to marry the girl who loves me or remain a bachelor? Still, the girl will be happier married to you if she loves you than she would be if she remained single.

This is a matter you must decide yourself. It seems a rather one-sided bargain for the girl to give you love and everything she can, and for you to give your love to another woman who is already married. Still, the girl will be happier married to you if she loves you than she would be if she remained single.

CLOTHES PSYCHOLOGY.
The psychology of clothes is always an interesting study.
First we make (or buy) our clothes, and then our clothes make us.
It's positively weird, a friend of mine said to me the other day, "the way I feel in that new hat, I never had a big sticking hat before and it makes me feel loud. When I have it on I feel myself walking and holding my arms akimbo, the funny way girls who are a little loud do, and even siting with my feet crossed and my skirts way up. It's all that horrid habit of mine."

Most of us have had some similar experience. Some special garment has struck a keynote and we have found ourselves living up or down to it.
We Ought to Be Able to Rise Above Clothes But I suppose we ought to be able to rise above clothes, but so few of us are.

Shabby clothes make us feel shabby and apologetic and ineffectual. New clothes make us feel smart and up-to-date. Becoming clothes give us right self-confidence. To be overdressed makes one uncomfortably clothes-conscious.

I heard of a woman the other day who wanted to help a girl in whom she was interested to obtain a position. To that end she insisted on supplying her with a complete outfit of clothes, not particularly expensive, but smart and becoming. "And when she put those clothes on," her benefactress says, "her whole manner changed. She stood straighter, she smiled, she looked like another girl. And she got the position, not only because she looked more attractive, but because she had more compelling power in her."

"How can you find time to change your dress and fix yourself up for the afternoon every day? I should think you'd be too busy and too tired," I said one day to a mother of four small children.

It Rests Her to Change Her Dress.

"It rests me to change my dress," she said. "If I can find time, I bathe and put on different underwear as well as a different dress."

The whole subject of dress and its effect on us merits not more attention, but more scientific attention, than most women give it.

Their children, their homes, their clothes, their social relationships, are the channels for self-expression. To have a self worth expressing and to express it, well in all these directions, is a task that no woman need despise.

Your Spring House-Cleaning

should not be confined to beating rugs and scrubbing floors. Clean out the accumulated "toxins" that come from heavy winter foods that clog the liver and lower the muscular tone and vitality of the body. Eat Shredded Wheat Biscuit with fresh berries or other fruits and green vegetables. Get back to Nature. Shredded Wheat will bring the bounding buoyancy of new life and vigor. Contains all the goodness of the whole wheat grain. Nothing so strengthening, health-giving and satisfying. Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Marrying a Butterfly

—By—
MRS. E. L. LEONARD

Ralph Gordon sat with his head buried in his hands, and his elbows on his knees. He had not moved for half an hour. The house was very quiet. The maid had gone out and since Ethel had rushed off in a flood of tears, because he had proposed to make her his mother-in-law, he had been thinking that he might learn housekeeping from books. "What do you think of the plan?"

"It surely is worth trying," he replied in a tone that tried to atone for the ineffectuality of his thoughts about her. "Of course you will find it harder than having some one show you, for you have not been doing much studying lately and books do not appeal to you very much. It will cost very little to try and it will give you something to think about."

"You can, if you are interested enough," was his evasive answer. "I'll send for a course of study at once."

"If I can not learn it alone, I might go home for a little while and take a course there," suggested Ethel after a silence.

"It is out of the question," burst out Ralph. "With all your girl friends to distract you and your mother to make you feel that you should do nothing, you would get nowhere in a hurry."

"You are hard on mamma," pouted the girl. "You do not want me near her."

"Surely not when you are planning to make a radical change in your habits. A change that will be hard enough without the hindrance she would surely be."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

In Making Quilts, first take some sheeting or similar kind of cloth and make a regular quilt out of the sheeting and cotton batting. Having this made, make a cover to fit over quilt, the cloth being of the desired color or design. The cover, when dirty, may easily be washed without washing cotton batting.

In Making Place Cards, cut out pictures of fruit, genative, pies, cake, etc., and paste on the card, then cut out around top of picture. Put the guest's name on and you have a pretty place card. If you are carrying out any particular color scheme, see to it that these are the same color.

CANNING AND PRESERVING: One cup chopped pineapple (fresh or canned), two cups, fresh strawberries, three cups sugar. Mix all together. Boil twenty minutes after boiling point is reached.

Strawberry-Pineapple Marmalade: One quart, fresh strawberries, one pineapple juice of one orange, two cups sugar. Chop berries and pineapple, bring to boiling point, add sugar and cook fifteen minutes.

Strawberry Sunshine: One cup sugar melted and cooked down as much as possible without burning. Take one cup of strawberries. Drop in one berry at a time. Stir carefully and cook. This will fill one large jelly glass.

To Can Cherries Without Cooking: Pit cherries and cover with very weak vinegar overnight. In morning drain through colander. To each cup of cherries add a cup of sugar. Put in jar and stir well daily for ten days, then seal without heating.

THE TABLE.

Grapefruit—Prepare the evening before by taking out the seeds and putting sugar on each half.

Scrambled Eggs—Nest one tablespoon of butter in a skillet and for each egg put one tablespoon of milk; break the eggs into the milk, salt them; then chop and fold them into the skillet until set, when they are ready to serve.

Escalloped Cheese—Grate or grind one full cup of cheese; two cups cracker crumbs; put a layer of crumbs, then a layer of cheese until used, with crumbs on top; beat two eggs and one pint of milk together and pour over; bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set.

Nut Bread—Two-thirds cup white sugar, one egg, one and a half cups milk, four cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one cupful walnuts, broken in small pieces; mix well and let rise twenty minutes; bake in slow oven forty minutes.

Stuffed Round Steak—Two pounds round steak; make a dressing of stale bread seasoned with salt, a little onion, pepper and butter; spread on the steak and roll and tie with a pan with a pint of water and let bake for thirty minutes before putting in the potatoes; when potatoes and meat are done make a gravy.

Strawberry Shortcake—Make a soft dough of two cups sifted flour, three fourths cup butter, one egg, three fourths cup sweet milk, one-half teaspoon salt; small, make two layers, butter, put one on top of other and put on berries and whipped cream on the top.

Stuffed Tomatoes—Cut a thin slice from the smooth end of the tomatoes. Scoop out the pulp, mix with an equal quantity of cold cooked rice macaroni or a few fine bread crumbs and mince of cold roast beef or mutton. Add salt, pepper, butter and a few drops of onion juice. Refill tomato shells, cover with top and bake one-half hour.

one cup sugar, one-fourth cup tapioca, juice of one lemon, pinch of salt, stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. "Balanced" Tires

One of the Five is Yours

No one tire will fit every motoring need of use and price.

That is why the United States Tire Company makes five tires—

'Nobby,' 'Chain,' 'Usco,' 'Royal Cord,' and 'Plain.'

Each will give from a little to a whole lot more mileage than other tires in its class.

Motorists buy, and re-buy, United States 'Balanced' Tires, because of—what?

Service—satisfactory service—mileage—least amount of trouble.

That's the reason that United States 'Balanced' Tires show such steady, consistent sales increases.

Ask the nearest United States Tire Dealer for your copy of the booklet, "Judging Tires," which tells how to find the particular tire to suit your needs.

RUBY-CROWNED KINGLET (Regulus calendula)

Length, about four and one-fourth inches. Olive green above, soiled whitish below, concealed feathers on head (crest) bright red.

Range: Breeds in southern Canada, southern Alaska, and the higher mountains of the western United States; winters in much of the United States and south to Guatemala.

Habits and economic status: In habits and haunts this tiny spry creature resembles a chickadee. It is an active, nervous little creature, flitting hither and yon in search of food, and in spring stopping only long enough to utter its beautiful song, surprisingly loud for the size of the musician.

Three-fourths of its food consists of wasps, bugs, and flies. Beetles are the only other item of importance (12 per cent). The bugs eaten by the kinglet are mostly small, but, happily, they are the most harmful kinds. Treehoppers, leafhoppers, and jumping plant lice are pests and often do great harm to trees and smaller plants, while plant lice and scale insects are the worst scourges of the fruit grower.

In fact, the prevalence of the latter has almost risen to the magnitude of a national pest. It is these small and seemingly insignificant birds that most successfully attack and hold in check these insidious foes of horticulture. The vegetable food consists of seeds of poison ivy, or poison oak, a few weed seeds, and a few small fruits, mostly elderberries.

What Becomes of the Goats. The reported goat shortage in the United States may be due to anything from British interference with neutral trade to the fact that neighbors with autos honk loudly before the houses when returning home at midnight.

What becomes of gotten goats is another of those questions like that concerning the whereabouts of lights that go out—Springfield Republican.

THE WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Edited by MRS. ABBIE HELMS

"Let Us Meet and Counsel Together"

MEETING OF THE SUFFRAGE CLUBS

(By Ida M. Tarbell.)

Nothing of the many things happening in the city of Chicago, this week, could be so interesting to the women of the city as the meeting of the suffrage clubs, which is being held at the city hall.

For the women themselves, the drama has moments of deep and real pathos—and it has, too, a touch of tragedy. There is plenty of comedy marking its development, but it is the men, not the women, who are the victims. Never have I seen gentlemen pass so quickly from the position of interested confidence to puzzled and irritated humility—or plain scare—as at the meeting on Tuesday night, June 6.

WORK OF THE WHITEWATER CITY FEDERATION.

It is only as members of the Federation that our various clubs can accomplish work along civic lines. Six standing committees, health, civics, education, suburban and charity, plan and direct the activities of the Federation. Of these the health, civics and charity committees are each allowed $25.00 to spend according to their discretion though more may be voted when their needs are pointed out.

The entertainment committee in the main, plans the ways and means of earning money for the Federation. Of these the health, civics and charity committees are each allowed $25.00 to spend according to their discretion though more may be voted when their needs are pointed out.

We have tried to do our share in the club activities of the state. It has been paid to the Douseman Home and Farm school. Our share of the State Endowment fund has been paid. We have had a few state officials here to talk to us, among them Miss Bascom, who gave a very valuable paper on "How to Prepare a Club Program." The full quota of delegates was sent to the State convention at Chicago at the end of the year.

We managed the sale of Christmas seals which also comes under the sources of revenue, since it is not a charity. The State seal exhibit has been held here under the auspices of the Round Table club. Within the city the Federation carries on or aids many worthy enterprises. For several years it has been the chief support of the play which is now carried by the city school board though still aided by us when special improvements are needed. The city library has received our help. For the first time last Christmas we attempted a community tree and with great success. Too much cannot be said of its value in fostering civic pride and good fellowship.

Our greatest energies for the immediate future are centered on Baby Week, which begins May second. During these days babies will be examined and scored by competent physicians and nurses, according to the plan of the Woman's Home Companion. Lectures will be given by authorities on this subject. We expect by this means to make the beginning of our community toward the "Better Babies Movement."

In smaller and more indefinite ways we have aided our city. Our city is more beautiful, more healthy and better place to live in, and it is to this end that we work each year. Whitewater is full of concrete examples of what can be accomplished by the co-operation of women. We are proud of what we have done, but we take a more subtle satisfaction in the obvious dependence of the community upon us when we consider that our betterment is brought about by our accomplishments in Whitewater have won for us deep respect from Whitewater and stimulated by its appreciation, we anticipate doing more and better things in that municipality.

Delegate Emerson club.

MOVIES FOR THE CHILDREN.

In many cities this idea of providing a safe and sane amusement for the little folks of a community has been taken up by the women's organizations. They argue that, especially during the winter, when the playgrounds, vacant lots and sports arenas are not available, that supervision of the moving picture houses as an educational program on Saturday forenoon would fill a long felt want and add a distinct adjunct to the city's assets. This at least has been the experience in many places where it has been tried out. One of these cities, Albany, N. Y., has the following report of their work in this direction: "The movement began with the Drama League and was endorsed by the board of education, the Teachers' association, and the Ministerial association. Then it was taken up by the women's clubs, who helped by selling tickets enough to guarantee the first six programs."

Every program contains one feature of historic or literary interest—"The Birth of the Star Spangled Banner," for instance, or "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." This feature is announced in advance so that the children may have time to familiarize themselves with the story. The public school pupils who submit the best composition on the topic is presented with a bank account of $1. and the award is made on the stage the following Saturday. By the superintendent of schools. Donations of tickets for free distribution to school children were made. The noted club then took special pains to see that the poorest children of the city were provided with tickets. But perhaps the question arises whether such methods are practicable in the still with us. An authority on the subject says: "The small towns really have the advantage of the big cities in this work, for much easier for them to make their cause known to all the people. They have fewer attractions, with which to compete. If one big interesting moving picture was given in every youngster would know about it, and be on hand the next Saturday with their nickel. Now that the moving pictures are so popular and the children by the thousands are asked, 'Why shall we see it at its best?' It seems as if this problem is one of the things which a town can well take hold of, as the amusement and education of its children is of the greatest importance to the community."

THE BELOIT PAGEANT.

As the City Federation and the club women which it represented, did such good work in planning and carrying out the details of the recent civic pageant at Beloit, a word or two regarding their co-operation may not be out of place. The original suggestion regarding the affair came from the Beloit New Drama Society and members of this organization helped very materially throughout the event. Prof. Theodore Wright and Prof. Sweeney of the college, who have both lectured before the women's clubs of our city, were responsible for the text and the music of the production.

Mrs. J. C. Wainwright, president of the City Federation, was chairman of the committee presenting the pageant, and Mrs. W. C. Wainwright, chairman of Lincoln, visited to Wisconsin. In the postscript of "Beloit Today and Tomorrow," the chairman was Mrs. W. P. Leek. In the committee on costumes Mrs. F. F. Gorham was chairman, and Mrs. F. Bailey, Miss Margaret Goodwin and other club assistants. All these club women are well known to Janesville ladies.

The educational groups comprised one of the most effective scenes of the closing episode. The clubs which participated in the parade and what they represented are as follows: Civics, North End Thursday club; History, West Side Monday club; Science, East Side club; Agriculture, Outlook club; Domestic Science, Mothers' club; Music, Treble Clef; Ancient Languages, Thursday club; Modern English Literature, Monday club; Drama, Drama society; Religion, Collegiate Alumnae association; Boy Scouts, members of the high school faculty, employees of the Dodge farm and many others assisted. The costumes of the club women were beautiful.

Many of the prominent citizens took part. Mayor Adams carried the pageant flag, the closing scenes. The Spirit of Internationalism was given by President E. D. Eaton, Judge D. Rosa appeared as Abraham Lincoln. Many of the professors of the college and half a dozen of the clergy of the city participated in the whole community co-operation, and the bringing about of such co-operation is the greatest gain of the pageant, and which nothing else can do in this measure. The clubs, the city, the clubs, the schools, the national societies, the industrial organizations and every single individual citizen taking part will have a greater interest in each other, and a larger respect for his own value to the community.

And this spirit of co-operation was the finest thing evolved by the pageant, and the thing which will be the most lasting effect on the civic life of Beloit.

HOW COMMUNITY INSTITUTES HELP CLUB WORK.

Eleven Community institutes were held in Wisconsin during the past year with an attendance of 40,000 people.

Some of the tangible results have already become apparent, according to Prof. J. L. Gillin, who has directed the institutes. In Merrill, for example, a strong community club was formed which is doing good work in the city. In the business and social conditions of the town. In Appleton a movement was set on foot toward securing a county agricultural agent. A community club and a cooperative delivery service among merchants were established at Washburne and in Manitowoc a movement was started for the establishment of an associated charities.

It takes two or three years for some of the results to manifest, he points out. In Mineral Point, for example, three or four years ago an institute was held whose only result evident at the time was the formation of a women's civic club. This club has since become an energetic, however, that innumerable benefits have resulted, among them the establishment of a rest room for farmers' wives in the new city hall, the purchasing of the one house for two public spirited citizens, and its conversion into a gymnasium, and a movement for the beautification of street corners and business buildings.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PHILATHEA CLASS

One of the smaller organizations of women which is doing good work is the Philathea Class of the Baptist church, whose leader and teacher, Mrs. Mary H. Barker, has just returned to them after a winter spent on the coast. The motto of this society is "We Do Things," and the avowed object is "to stimulate interest in Bible study, promote missionary work and otherwise broaden views of interest in life." The name, which is Greek, means "Lovers of Truth," and the national society is known as the "Lovers of the Country for the Year." The local branch meets at the regular Sunday school hour, when the lesson is studied and such matters discussed as are necessary. The first Monday evening of every month is devoted to a social session. Every alternate meeting is marked by a banquet prefaced by members of the class. The officers are as follows: President, Miss Clara Schwartz; vice-president, Miss Hazel Baker; secretary, Miss Grace Mabie; treasurer, Miss Ethel Davis; teacher, Miss Mary Barker.

WAITING ROOM AT END OF CAR LINE

One of the things vitally needed in our city is some kind of a public waiting room at the end of the car line on Washington street. It is a common occurrence to see a large group of people, many of them old and infirm, sitting by the roadside (too weary to stand) waiting for a car. And in case of a storm such a condition of things is a serious menace to the public health. What is needed is some sort of an open shelter provided with seats for just such emergencies. It seems as if the street car company, which benefits by the crowds carried to this waiting room for its patrons. But in case they cannot be induced to do so, it would be a very wise thing for cemetery associations to take the initiative and provide some such accommodations. "City on the Hill." It is wise in thinking of the dead to have a thoughtful care for those who are living. The city with us, and as a provision for the aged and little children this idea is suggested with the hope that it may stimulate action in the matter.

A HISTORICAL ROOM.

Something that would give of great value to the city, as time went on, would be some room where relics, curios, and especially articles of historical value could be preserved and taken care of by the benefit of future generations. There are many such things which are very interesting and valuable which would be preserved in such a room if available for the purpose. Many curios and old historical articles are thrown away or destroyed constantly because there seems to be nothing else to do with them, and there are oftentimes valuable collections which might be at least loaned to the city if such a room were ready to receive them. Such might have been the case with the very extensive collection owned by J. P. Baker, Druggist, Janesville, Wis.

the late Horace McElroy. He dearly loved his home town and especially the library building, which was so closely connected with his student life. He would have been especially appropriate that at least part of his best loved treasures might have found a permanent abiding place there. But perhaps it is too late for this endeavor, still there are other beautiful things which would be given if a place were made ready for them. And in time a valuable permanent museum would be the result. We wish the city government would see its way clear to finish off another room in the library building for that purpose. Or perhaps some private citizen would like to do it and furnish something of value as a nucleus to the historical room.

DOWNER GIRLS CELEBRATE SHAKESPEARE ANNIVERSARY

Five hundred girls, including the entire student bodies and many alumnae of Milwaukee-Downer college and seminary, will appear in a pageant in celebration of the Shakespearean tercentenary on Monday, June 19, in "Hawthorne," their outdoor theater. More than a dozen horses will appear, and the actors will wear gorgeous costumes of the olden days. Miss Mary E. Wilder, head of the expression department, will have charge. The proceeds will be added to the $1,000 endowment fund. Scenes from the forest of Arden will be one of the features. Robin Hood and his merry outlaws will step forth from story books to dance and shoot under the Hawthorne. The performance will extend through the afternoon and evening. The afternoon program will include three scenes typical of outdoor life in Shakespeare.

CLUB WOMEN MANAGE

The Women's city club of Chicago recently leased the Strand theatre for one performance on Monday of this week. They gave a special invitation to the production of a new child welfare film. It was in seven reels and entitled, "Uncle Sam's Babies." It had mainly to do with the efforts made by the government to safeguard the children on men.

THE PHILOMATHIAN CLUB.
This society will hold a picnic with Mrs. J. A. Craig at her summer home, Craigmont, on Saturday, June 17th. Mrs. Craig will be the hostess. The committee on transportation and Mesdames Howe, Sanborn, Murdoch and Craig comprise the committee on menu.

THE CIVIC LEAGUE.
An informal meeting of this organization was held at the city hall on Monday, June 11. No quorum being present, only a discussion of ways and means was had. Various suggestions for a rest room were suggested and a report of the fly campaign was given by the chairman, Mrs. George Rummel.

MISSIONARY FEDERATION.
The Federation of Missionary Associations has a meeting on June 14, at 3 p. m., at the Presbyterian church. There will be an election of officers and Mrs. Howard will speak on Dr. Schaeffer's institution for foreign girls. The Sunday school class of Mrs. Bingham will give the Korean missionary play, Kosiki.

ADDITIONAL PRESS SEATS FOR ST. LOUIS CONVENTION

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
St. Louis, June 14.—With the addition of several hundred seats in the press section of the Coliseum, the seating facilities for metropolitan newspaper correspondents at the Democratic national convention which opens here tomorrow exceeds the press "coop" at the last convention in Baltimore. The seating capacity of the press sections in that city were nearly five hundred. St. Louis' arrangements will accommodate nearly twice that number.

A special balcony to be reserved for the editors and workers on Democratic galleries in Illinois, Missouri has been built close to the speaker's stand. Delegates and alternates will occupy the main floor of the Coliseum exclusively. Visitors will be seated in the galleries and boxes and the sergeant-at-arms has been instructed to see that none but delegates, alternates and members of the press are permitted on the floor.

About 7,500 seats are set aside for visitors in the two galleries and the boxes.

STANDARD OIL CO. RECALLS OIL PROSPECTORS IN CHINA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Peking, June 14.—The Standard Oil company has recalled all its prospectors and equipment from Shensi province and has definitely abandoned the boring of wells in search of oil. The last of its drilling crew has returned to Peking and will sail for the United States within a few days.

While there is still a possibility that the Standard Oil company and the Chinese government may reach an agreement to conduct some further prospecting work some time in the future, there is believed to be little likelihood that such action will be taken soon.

No announcement has been made as to the success the American company has had in its exploitation work, but it is reported that the results of the drilling were disappointing.

MAY EFFECT SETTLEMENT IN MONROE FRAUD CASE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., June 14.—There are indications that John H. Hendricks, the well known contractor, who fled from here about three weeks ago, will be able to effect a settlement and the charge of embezzlement, which has been brought against him, will be dropped. Hendricks was chased across two states and was finally captured in Nebraska. He had sold his automobile to a man in Nebraska, who was working at the carpenter trade, when caught. He was brought back to Monroe under the custody of Sheriff M. E. Sobra.

YANKEE AVIATORS SHOW GREAT SKILL IN GERMAN RAIDS

Vivid Article on Work of the Aviators Against Germans and the Success Made by Americans.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Headquarters of an Aviation Group, Behind the French Front, June 14.—The aviator is an early bird, and here, where the nightingale abounds, it is a close race between them to be at dusk and to the fields at dawn.

The nightingales were roosting in this morning when the pilots of the Franco-American Flying corps were making their way to the aviation camp and daylight had just peeped over the horizon when Captain H., commander of the group, ordered, "Bring out the machines."

There was nothing new in this to the seven American pilots who have been flying in different groups on different parts of the front for upwards of a year. All of them had been on with the nightingale a few hundred mornings, but it announced their first expedition together on a separate unit of the French aviation corps over German territory.

Americans Ready.
Long-planned machines resembling small sheds, and short-winged machines which in comparison dwindled to the proportions of devil fish, rolled on the field and were pushed on to their places until twenty-eight were lined up. Captain H. gazed at the low-lying clouds—excellent mass for a flotilla crossing the enemy's lines—and ordered: "Tell the Americans to be ready." The Americans, grouped behind their swift chasers, listened to final instructions from the command. Then the signal was given with a white signal flag ran into the field, the planes picked up and the engines leaped to their seats. The flag was raised while the motors buzzed like a swarm of gigantic bumble bees. The flag dropped and Captain H.'s big biplane rose to lead the column. The flag was raised and dropped at intervals of about thirty seconds, and each time a pair of the bigger machines followed until nineteen of them were flying toward the German lines.

The big machines were gone but the noise increased as the propellers of the smaller but more powerful and swifter biplanes were set in motion. It was time for the Americans—specialists in speed. The first big plane was approaching the clouds when, then followed Lieutenant Lepoivre of the French corps, Lieutenant Wilfrid Thaw of Pittsburgh, Sergeant Elliot Cowdin and Corporal Victor Chapman of New York; Sergeant Norman Prince of Crossin, Mass.; Corporal Kiffin Rockwell of Atlanta, Ga.; Corporal J. M. McConnell, Carthage, Mo.

N. C. and Sergeant Hall, Galveston, Tex.

Built for Speed.

These little biplanes with powerful motors are the fruits of the evolution of aviation during the war—built to match the best German machines in speed, carrying only the pilot, a machine gun and the minimum requirement of fuel. Instead of rising gradually like their predecessors, they bound upward with an ascensional power heretofore unattained. They are so dangerous in a fight that the pilot has to go into the adversary's territory to hunt an engagement. That was what the Americans, especially chosen for these machines, were to do.

There were nine of these, together with nineteen of the big bombarding machines, in sight together for an instant; then the head of the line disappeared in the clouds. The "hunters," as the speedy machines are called, overhauled the last of the bigger fliers and went out of sight ahead of them, while "Thaw's," "Fris," and Captain T.—"Fram," the two pet dogs of the camp, were still barking after them.

Even soldiers habituated to this spectacle for nearly two years, never tire of it. They watch the last machine until it is out of sight, then turn back without comment to the sheds to await the return. The silence and solemnity of the camp after the departure was depressing. The seventy soldiers of the camp knew that some of those brave boys might be missing when the roll was called again.

Time passes with remarkable rapidity on fighting expeditions, aviators say, but the two hours maximum wait in camp to see if they all get back is always long. Watches are out after ninety minutes and eyes are turned in the direction taken by the fliers. At the ninety-ninth minute, perhaps, a speck appears high above the horizon. "There they come," is the word that passes around the camp and everyone is on the field. "It's a chaser," says one. "Number two is a bombardier," says another. In a few minutes twenty-seven specks are counted; then there is another word and voices are hushed. "Hunter" circles around the camp, dives downward at a dizzy pace, skims along the field without slowing up, until breaking against the wind it comes to a thrilling stop.

The Late Return.

The faster machines, last away, are first back, for the fuel supply with them is sometimes a close fit, and not a second is to be lost. Seven chasers land at the same breakfast pace, and with the same precision.

The eighth seems to flutter as it approaches, tips and dives fitfully. Field glasses are leveled at him. "He's had his tail piece carried away," cries one. "It's Thaw," says another, "and there's something wrong with his propeller." Alternately rearing, diving, and sliding on its wing, the machine comes down convulsively like a wounded bird.

"He's going to break off wood!" exclaims a French soldier, expressing in characteristic aviation language the prospect of a smash. The machine rears again after a dive which took it dangerously close to the earth, veers around abruptly against the wind, bumps along the ground for hundreds of yards and stops. "Thaw's one of the few pilots who could bring home a busted machine like that," said a soldier.

"But where's Chapman?" All the big biplanes are now in and pilots and soldiers are searching the sky anxiously. Then a cry comes from the field. A speck has just emerged from the clouds, Chapman, driven out of his course by the shelling in which Thaw's propeller was damaged, had finally found his way, and lands now with the last drop of gasoline in his reservoir.

"The disgusting thing about it," said Thaw, while the mechanics were taking an inventory of the damage, "is that the fellows over there across the line wouldn't come out to fight."

HOLLAND'S WAR BREAD WILL HAVE TO BE CHANGED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

The Hague, June 14.—Holland's war bread, which has been in use for the last few weeks, will have to be changed. The Holland populace says so, the physicians of Holland say so, and the government is expected to agree.

Unlike the war bread of all other European countries, the Holland bread was made of flour which contained the husks of the wheat. Even able to endure the scrapings and scorchings of the wheat husks, and shortly the physicians of Dutch cities and towns had a rush of patients whose digestive organs had gone wrong. The doctors quickly traced the trouble to the war bread.
